Additional Information

The benefits of bioflavonoids

Bioflavonoids, known as vitamin P, are water-soluble molecules made up of a group of pigments that are often found in fruits and vegetables that contain vitamin C. Bioflavonoids include a number of components that work together—citrin, hesperidin, rutin, flavones, flavonols. Drasanvi's Promelo[®] complex is made with grapefruit seed extract (not with grapefruit juice), which is rich in bioflavonoids (50%). It is important to note that there are 10 times more bioflavonoids in the seeds and the white parts of the fruit than in its juice.

Natural source of vitamin C

Vitamin C has a number of properties, the most important of which is supporting a healthy immune system. The vitamin C used in Promelo[®] complex comes from dog rose. It is a plant that contains some of the highest levels of vitamin C.
